

Recovery for Lap Band

Recovery for Lap Band

The Lap Band Procedure is normally completed in less than an hour, sending a patient home the same day as surgery, and providing a faster recovery time compared to similar surgeries. In most cases, the Lap Band Procedure is done on an out-patient basis.

Among the other positive results of the Lap Band Procedure is that it does not involve any cutting or stapling, nor does it necessitate the need to bypass portions of the stomach or intestines.

When considering the Lap Band Procedure, individuals and their doctor will have an initial consultation to go over the surgery and decide if the individual is a strong candidate for the operation.

The Lap Band Procedure has helped countless individuals regain their lives and their control over their weight.

Proving safe and cost-effective, it is no surprise that the Lap Band Procedure is so popular.